DUSK IS DANGER TIME

"Dusk is danger time," our Governor's Committee on Highway Safety observed today. The committee was reminding Maine motorists that Death lies in wait for the thoughtless driver who carries his daylight driving habits into the deadly hours of dusk and darkness.

"The most dangerous hours for fatal traffic crashes, especially during the fall and winter months, are the early evening hours from 4:30 to 8 p. m.," continued the committee. "The tricky, half-light of twilight is particularly dangerous. Reduced visibility and deceptive shadows combine to make driving deadly difficult."

The committee urged motorists to reduce speeds and to be unusually alert as daylight hours shorten.

"The final quarter of the year ushers in the months of longer darkness," said the committee. "Hazards become more dangerous when they cannot be readily seen. Pedestrians walking in the street or along the highway, holes in the road, a car stalled on the highway—all of these are more dangerous potentially than they would be during hours of daylight. An approaching driver does not see these dangers until they come within range of his headlights. If he is overdriving his lights—driving so fast that he cannot stop within the distance illuminated by his lights—it will be very difficult for him to avoid trouble.

"The best defense against highway troubles during these particularly dangerous months is to maintain a consistent policy of keeping our speed low enough to enable us to stop within the range of our lights," concluded the committee. "If we do this conscientiously, and if we increase our alertness at the first suggestion of darkness, our chances of staying out of highway accidents will be greatly increased."

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

As you all know Nov. 6 is Presidential Election Day. Please note that the Selectmen will be in session Nov. 2, 3, and 5 at the Town Manager's office from nine o'clock until 4:30 p. m. No registrations can be accepted Tuesday Nov. 6, unless there has been a clerical error in the office.

Please note: Voting for Presidential Election will be in the Community Building.

It is our understanding of the laws in regard to any special considerations for any reduction in payment of taxes that each person who feels their tax is a burden they are unable to pay, may file an application for abatement. Forms will be supplied at our office. The Assessors will then consider the requests, and if any abatement is approved, such abatements will be listed in the next Town Report.

I am very glad that The Citizen plans to publish a list of your appropriations elsewhere in this paper. I believe it is also planned to publish, at a later date, the new valuations and new taxes.

Thank you,
O. T. Rozelle

FARM OWNERSHIP LOAN SERVICE EXPANDED

The farm ownership loan service which has enabled many Oxford county farmers to buy, enlarge, or improve their farms with 40-year loans has recently been expanded to enable the Farmers Home Administration to serve the credit needs of a larger number of farm families, Elwyn R. Morrow, the agency's county supervisor, explained today.

Under recent legislation loans may now be made primarily to refinance existing debts of owner-operators of farms no larger than family-type. In the past the agency only refinanced loans when the refinancing was incidental to the making of real estate loans for the purchase or improvement of family-type farms.

Mr Morrow said the loans for refinancing will help farmers who have adequate real estate security and who are otherwise in a sound position but who are unable to meet their present credit obligations and need credit on more favorable terms and conditions than are currently available from other lenders.

When debts are refinanced by the Farmers Home Administration under this program, the repayments will be scheduled over periods up to 40 years according to the borrower's ability to repay. Interest or interest plus insurance charges will be 4½ percent.

The regular credit services of the agency including loans for the purchase and improvement of family-type farms are continued.

Private lenders supply most of the funds for the agency's farm real estate loans under the insured loan program. The lender receives 4½ per cent interest and the government charges an additional 1 per cent for insurance. The Farmers Home Administration makes, services and collects the loans.

The new law also provides loans for developing and improving farms that are smaller than family-type. To be eligible an applicant must be an established farm owner, carrying on substantial farm operations and spending a major part of his time farming. He must also have a dependable source of private income.

These loans will assist farmers who own small farms and rent additional land and small farm owners who depend on off-farm employment for part of their income. The credit can be used to improve land and buildings.

The interest rates and terms are the same as those for loans made for refinancing debts. Interest or interest plus insurance charges will be 4½ percent. The loans will be repayable over periods up to 40 years.

Like the loans that were already available, loans under the new authorities will be made only to applicants whose credit needs cannot be adequately handled by banks or other lenders.

Peter Kalley celebrated his fifth birthday on Oct 8. Those present were Carol and Marty Richardson, Harlet and Mary Hillier, Bill and Mike Myers, John Thurston, Stephen Hastings and the honor guest.

NEW VALUATIONS AND TAXES INTEREST MOST BETHEL CITIZENS

During the past two weeks, since the distribution of the 1956 tax estimates, the people of Bethel have become "tax conscious" to a degree never reached before. It seems to be a common opinion that those having tax increases will greatly outnumber those who will benefit by the revaluation which has been in progress the past year.

As the estimate stated, appropriations amounting to 11 per cent more than in 1955 were voted at the annual March meeting, so that normally under the old system taxes would increase in that proportion. It was to be expected however, that those whose estimates greatly exceeded this amount would question the justice of the new assessment.

In many cases taxpayers thus affected received assurance of the equality of the new method after consultation with the appraisers in the three days of hearings in the assessors' office last week. Anyway they learned of the methods used in reaching the new valuation figures and in a few cases were able to have their property reviewed.

As might be expected, a large part of the discussion and criticism comes from a few who, while they may agree that the valuation of their holdings is fair enough, believe that the burden should be borne by somebody else. Those whose estimates are less than before seem to be generally satisfied with the new way.

A list of those paying town taxes will be published in an early issue of The Citizen. This has not been done in Bethel for many years and has been suggested by several of our readers. At this time it will be of timely interest.

It may be remembered that the voters last March chose to raise over $150,000 to meet town expenses. Some $27,000 of this was taken from the surplus, but $123,343 remained to be raised by this year's taxation.

This year's town expense was lightened considerably by two contributions from Gould Academy in of their property. Last year $1500 addition to the taxes paid on some was given in settlement for a slight relocat on of Elm Street, and at the town meeting $2500 was given toward the purchase of the new Mack fire pumper last winter.

As a reminder of the items financed by 1956 taxes, the list of appropriations voted in March is included here:

LOCAL SCHOOL MONEY MISSING AFTER TWO BREAKS TUES. NIGHT

Breaks at the Crescent Park School and the Primary School building Tuesday netted burglars over $30. The money was mostly in coins collected for milk and an eighth grade fund and much of it was in small coins.

The loss and damage was discovered before the opening of school Wednesday morning and is believed to have taken place after 11 o'clock the night before, following PTA meeting.

Two windows were broken at the Crescent Park building and door of the superintendent's office and filing cabinets were damaged. Money amounting to some $28 was taken from the school rooms. The Primary School was entered through an unlocked window and about $4 was taken.

A stranger who was under suspicion was sought by Deputy Sheriff Grover Tuesday evening without success, and he and another party are believed by authorities to be connected with the affair.

ideas from other editors

From the Webster Times, Webster, Massachusetts: Several of the few remaining circuses have failed in the United States in recent years. The newspapers have carried the story of another failure.

It is also reported that this may be the last year for Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey Circus. It is said that the day of carrying along tents, for huge shows under the big top, is at an end. It is even said that Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey, which has long been recognized as the No. 1 circus attraction in this country, will next year perform in air-cooled, indoor auditoriums.

If this is true, it is the end of the big top as many Americans have known it for decades. It will be the end for many things, and the vast traveling assemblage which has characterized the circus in America for so many years will fade from the scene.

The smaller circuses have not been able to make it in modern times, competing with television and other forms of entertainment. They are now selling their animals and the show will never go on the road. Now the giant among them closes down.

This is unfortunate, and to a certain number of Americans it is almost a personal tragedy. The circus, one might say, has been a part of the American way of life.

From The Dearborn Independent, Dearborn, Michigan: How much do you think your vote will count . . . in the election? If you're an "armchair" citizen . . . chances are that you feel that YOUR vote won't be missed.

If so, you're wrong. Many elections in our history have been decided by a handful of votes, and Michigan has had its share of these close elections . . . Your vote, whether it was cast or not, may have been one of the deciding ballots.

Primary day is your day, Mr. and Mrs. Voter. If you cast an intelligent ballot, you count. If you stay home on primary election day, you miss the chance to have a say in the way your political party is run. You endorse or reject the candidates recommended by the party organizations. Through the primary, YOU decide, however indirect it seems, who is to be your party's candidate for public office.

The act of merely marching to the polls to cast a vote, however, is not the zenith of civic achievement. Your vote should be carefully considered one, based on the thoughts and information you have concerning the candidates and issues.

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

Last year saw the first observance of Farm-City Week. By any standard it was a great success. Kiwanis International was the spearhead group. Some 400 national and regional organizations participated through their various local branches. Practically every community in this country, along with many in Canada, witnessed observances. More than 250,000 people were actually involved in carrying on the activities. Just about everyone on the North American continent heard the Farm-City Week story, due to the excellent coverage provided by newspapers, radio, and TV. To frost the cake, the 1955 observance of the Week was selected for the distinguished public service award by the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

Now the second annual observance of the Week is on the horizon. November 16-22 is the time. Kiwanis will again do the spearhead work in most communities. And this year's observance it would seem, is to be even bigger and better than last year's.

The purpose of the Week is as admirable as it is simple. It is to "bring about better understanding between the urban and rural segments of our society." Through this understanding, it is hoped, will come the realization by farmers and urban people that neither is self-sufficient, that the two groups are interdependent and on it that every city or home divided against itself shall not stand."

It should take pains to list all of the organizations which are sponsoring the week and cooperating to put it over. There is a national Farm-City Week committee with 50 members each of representatives from governmental agencies, service and agricultural organizations, industry and business, trade associations, farm publications, and so on and so on. Branches of such bodies will carry on the observance on the local level.

These observances, naturally, will vary somewhat from community to community. But there is a general pattern which is national in its scope. Businessmen will tour farms, rural residents will tour cities and factories, and there will be joint tours with groups going together. Meetings of farm and city people will feature fellowship and the exchange of pertinent information concerning particular problems the two groups face. There will be one-day interchanges, in which city folk will spend a day on the farm, and country people a day in the city. Demonstrations of new farming techniques will be a feature, along with displays of agricultural products. Church services will be devoted to the Farm-City Interdependence theme. Also, there will be what is known as "high-visibility" projects. As an example, last year a Vermont country family changed places with a New York City family for the week, and pictorial, editorial and broadcast coverage was given every phase of the life of each group for the entire period.

All in all, it's a big job for a big cause.

"FORCING PEOPLE INTO PERFECT HAPPINESS"

Those who have been attracted by the idea of a do-everything government, providing cradle-to-grave security for all, would do well to read and reread this paragraph from one of Dorothy Thompson's columns. "There is no way of creating and maintaining a 'perfect' society whatever. First, imposing upon the members an ideal of perfection, and then getting rid of all who do not share that ideal or fail to cooperate for its fulfillment. All utopias result in huge police states, policing people into perfect happiness. Policemen with clubs and public policemen threatening this and forbidding that psychological pressure, using more subtle and devastating methods to keep people from getting ideas into their heads."

Dorothy Thompson has brilliantly and boldly provided the reason why socialism and its variants always destroy individual liberty and change men. This is not to say, of course, that all socialists are bent on dictatorship. Some of them, such as Norman Thomas, are men of the highest principle, dedicated to human freedom and justice. But men of this stamp are few and far between, and in the power state control soon passes into the hands of the ruthlessly ambition and to the fanatics who, at any cost, are determined to make man over in some image of their own devising. There is no room in that state for those who do not fit this image. For the dissenter, there can only be the firing squad or the slave labor camp.

To end on a lighter note, some time ago a story made the rounds concerning an agitator addressing a London crowd. Among other things, he promised that, come the Revolution, all workers would ride in Rolls-Royces. A Cockney spoke up and said he didn't want to ride in a Rolls-Royce. The agitator glared at him and answered, "Come the Revolution, you'll ride in a Rolls-Royce whether you like it or not."

If socialism ever takes over here, you'll do exactly what you're told in every respect, whether you like it or not.

§ THE AMERICAN WAY § AS YOU READ IT

by Dr. Alfred P. Haake

Alfred P. Haake

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Alfred P. Haake, Ph.D., is a noted economist, public relations consultant, author and lecturer.)

Whenever I write something for publication I feel some apprehension lest someone read into what I have written something that is not there, or twist my meaning to make it something different than I intended, or miss my real point to emphasize something of lesser importance.

Much depends on how you read it, and not even the most careful writer can escape entirely being at the mercy of those who read what he writes.

Several weeks ago I wrote a piece entitled "A Problem For All American." In it I tried to make clear that the Supreme Court decision of more than a year ago really mixed two issues that should be dealt with separately. One was that of segregation in the public schools, which is really the problem and responsibility of the several States and not of the Federal Government, since the entire question of education and it administration, by virtue of the 9th and 10th amendments to the Constitution, is the responsibility of the several States.

The other issue is that of relative responsibility and power of the States and the Federal Government. Over a period of year, even before leadership in the Democratic Party deserted the principles of Thomas Jefferson and led the parade of collective good through concentrating power and responsibility in the Federal Government, the Constitution of the United States has been pushed further and further into the background of futility by interpretations which successively contradict each other as well as the actual ignoring of its provisions by left-wingers in our administrations.

I asked that we restore respect for that Constitution, even by the Congress, the Supreme Court and all Public Officials who swear to support that Constitution when they take office.

A reader who took exception to my article accused me of neglecting the rights and equality of men, and the brotherhood which should motivate us in our dealings and relations with our fellow men.

He pointed out, among other things, that the black race is not inferior to the white race despite differences in evolution, and illustrated his point with the example of negro children who were found superior to another group of white children. He denied what I had pointed out as biological taboos against the mixing of certain blood strains and hooted at the danger of the white race being diluted by mixture of races. He called for equal treatment in all respects.

But he missed the real point. What I emphasized then, as I do now, is that we cannot legislate goodness into people, nor establish social relations by supreme court edict. Real integration can come only if and when people are ready and qualified for it. Our task is to encourage all men to do their utmost to become worthy, within as well as between races, and encourage them to give others the opportunity to make themselves worthy.

It is sheer nonsense to insist that men are equal in all respects. There are inequalities among my own five children. Equality before the law, in responsibility to the laws that govern life, and in the sense that we are all children of a common God — that equality is ours. But there are tremendous differences in endowment, ability, performance and individual deserving according to individual behavior. Such inequality keeps life moving. Life with utter equality would be like an ocean without motion, a vast stagnant pool covered with the miasma of rotting things and death.

Brotherhood does not require equality in social or economic activity, of life on the same level. The Greatest of them all found brotherhood with slaves and those persecuted, without first demanding that slavery and persecution cease or that tyrants cease their tyrannies. The Spirit He engendered proved itself the most effective of all remedies for human ills through the years, and will carry men infinitely further toward real brotherhood and full opportunity for individual growth, than all the power of all the governments seeking to control the economic and social lives of their citizens.

GOULD ACADEMY

The largest crowd of parents, trustees and guests ever to converge on the Gould Academy campus for a Parents' Day was on hand this past week end to watch the Gould Academy eleven down Lyndon Institute 13 to 7.

The victory over Lyndon preserved the Huskies unbeaten record for 1956 and left the visitors still in quest of their first victory over Gould here in Bethel.

Early arrivals to the campus were on hand Friday night to witness an exhibition professional basketball game between the Boston Celtics and the Rochester Royals. The Celtics came through for the adopted home town, downing the Royals 96 to 90.

Saturday's events started at 10:30 a. m. as the girls' varsity and junior varsity field hockey teams met the girls from the Kents Hill School. The visitors proved the stronger, winning 2 to 1 and 3 to 0 over the Gould varsity and JVs respectively. It was a new and welcomed experience for the girls as well as the parents as inter-scholastic competition for the girls returned to Gould under the able direction of Miss Duffy.

At 2 o'clock the male side of the campus took charge and turned back a strong Lyndon Institute eleven 13 to 7. The Gould Academy band entertained at pre-game flag-raising ceremonies and also at half-time. Under Mr Marruse's direction the band played and marched climaxing with the formation of the Gould "G" at midfield.

Following the game the students assembled in the basement of Holden Hall for a tea dance and the parents adjourned to the gym for a faculty-parent tea.

At 5:30 the first of over 500 people were fed in the Marian True Gribbin Dining Hall. An elaborate buffet was prepared for the occasion by the Academy's kitchen staff.

At 8 o'clock a student variety show under the direction of Mr Thompson was held in the William Bingham Gymnasium. The show included everything from a wrestling match to a fashion show and concluded with prize dancing for students and parents.

Parent registration under the supervision of Mr Emery continued all day and once again the senior class won the honors for being best represented by parent attendance.

The largest Parents' Day crowd ever was on hand last Saturday to witness the Gould Academy eleven preserve its undefeated record as the Huskies took advantage of every break to down Lyndon Institute 13 to 7.

Opening strong the Gould offense registered four first downs in the first quarter only to lose possession on the Lyndon twelve yard line. In the second quarter, after returning a Lyndon punt to their own 45 yard line the Huskies moved 45 yards in 13 plays with Jerry Smith going over from the two yard stripe. Hill rushed the point and Gould led 7 to 0.

Lyndon was quick to reconnoiter and in the closing minutes of the first half scored on a 40-yard passlateral play. The conversion was good and the half ended with the teams tied.

The third quarter found the Huskies playing a defensive game as Lyndon controlled the ball for the most part. On the first play from scrimmage in the fourth quarter Jim Hill carried off his own right side and went 48 yards for a touchdown as key blocks paved a clear field. The rush for the extra point failed and Gould led 12 to 7. The Huskies checked two more Lyndon attempts to preserve their victory.

The Huskies will move to Berlin, N. H., this Saturday to meet Berlin High School. The game was orginally scheduled for Bethel but late complications are shifting the contest to Berlin. Kick-off is at 2 p. m.

Gould now has three victories and remain undefeated. The Huskies have compiled 57 points thus far to the opposition's 7. Saturdays contest should prove a close one as Berlin boasts a speedy running attack. Coach Scott's charges came through the Lyndon game without any injuries and should be at top strength for the Berlin game.

On Saturday at 10:30 a. m., the girls' field hockey team met on the girls athletic field ready and eager to meet their opponents the Kents Hill girls. Parents, teachers, and students alike were there to give the girls extra encouragement.

The Senior Varsity girls played first and kept the score knotted 0-0 in the first half. In the second half, Kents Hill took a 2-1 lead which held through the remainder of the game.

The second game between the Junior Varsity teams was equally as exciting as the first. Both Gould and Kents Hill girls played an excellent game but Kents Hill went out in front to win, 3-0.

Though Gould lost both ends of this doubleheader the girls display-

Here! New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks!
Performance-proved in a history-making test on the ALCAN Highway to Alaska

The Alcan Highway is the road where trucks grow old before their time. The road where gravel endlessly sledgehammers the life out of trucks. Where a fog of superfine dust chokes engines, and vicious ruts subject chassis to months of wear in a few hundred miles.

Six new '57 Chevrolet trucks, heavily loaded with cargo, raced north from Dawson Creek, B.C., through 1,420 miles of mountains and mire, rain and hail to Fairbanks, Alaska. Running around the clock, they made this torturous trip normally a 72-hour run in less than 45 hours. As a special test during the run, two of the trucks went the entire distance without once having their engines stopped!

Come in and see how well these new Alcan champs measure up to your job.

ANDOVER HIGH SCHOOL

Basketball practice is now underway. Both the girls and boys started practicing Monday. We plan to have a league which includes the following schools: Canton, Woodstock, West Paris, Buckfield, and Andover. Mr Alley is coaching the boys and Mr Weymouth the girls. Both teams look fairly good, but only time will tell. New uniforms have been ordered for both teams.

One thing established this year which Andover High has never had before is a cheerleading squad. The group consists of Joan Blinn, Jean Cushing, Winona Mythrall, Clarence Latimer, and Vivian Day. Miss Langevin is coaching them and said they are doing exceptionally well.

The juniors ordered their class rings recently. It won't be long now before they'll be flashing them around. The owners never keep their rings long though. You see girls sporting around with class rings on a chain around their neck or boys have them on their little fingers. I wonder why??? Don't they? You can always send them C.O.D. you know!!!

The seniors have ordered their graduation invitations, thank you notes and name cards. They plan to have their graduation pictures taken shortly.

The pupils which the juniors ordered for prize speaking have arrived and they are hard at work. The Junior Prize Speaking Contest will take place Dec. 12. The seniors play tricks have also arrived but it is too early to begin on the plays. Miss Langevin is coaching both the plays and prize speaking.

The last two Fridays the seniors have sponsored Record Hops. Both were successful and greatly enjoyed.

Next week we all have the privilege of looking forward to a week's vacation. Something no one is deprived of. So we can all take part whether we want to or not!" Phyllis Dennis

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

Roseburg, Ore., News-Review: "It is evident that the average worker considers himself a citizen first and a union member second. Also that more and more are beginning to view with suspicion the political 'shop stoops...."

Santa Paula, Calif., Daily Chronicle: "The round of labor strikes, settled invariably by granting higher wages, in several major industries has only fed inflation. The big steel strike laid the foundation as predicted, and with its settlement, new price increases in iron and steel products were immediately announced. Aluminum followed steel, with more increased prices. There is no known way yet devised to increase costs without price increases so we travel in a circle."

Decatur, Ill., News: "Honestly, don't you sometimes get to where it's great country if you just mind its own business? Organization seems to be the answer whether we like it or not. The great American spirit which was long a shining example to the rest of the world, held in contempt and now seems to be disappearing under an avalanche of corruption, vice and promises of security from the cradle to the grave."

Jeffersontown, Ky., Jeffersonian: "Men and women willing to stem the tide of over-spending should not only be encouraged to run for public office, but should be militantly supported once they decide to make the sacrifice. And a sacrifice is what it really means to oppose well organized pressure groups that are willing to make demands for legislation for their benefit at the expense of the general taxpaying public."

Junction City, Ore., Times: "Voting is more than just a privilege of our citizens. It's a duty and an obligation. And that's something to remember in these coming pre-election days. As individuals, we don't owe anything to these politicians; our obligation is to secure the highest type of government at local, state and national level."

COLE - STERLING

On Sunday, Oct. 14, the Newry Church was the scene of a pretty fall wedding, when Miss Elaine Sterling, daughter of Mr and Mrs Arnold Sterling of Hanover, became the bride of Daniel Cole, son of Mr and Mrs Lester Cole of Greenwood.

Rev Ronald Hecks of West Paris Baptist Church was the officiating clergyman, the double ring service being used. Miss Ruth McKeen, organist of the West Paris Baptist Church, played the traditional wedding music.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a white taffeta gown with nylon net over. Three rows of shirring at top of the full net skirt were trimmed with val lace.

The half-off the shoulder, shirred and fitted bodice which came to a point in front, was trimmed with val lace and illusion centered medallions around the neck line, sleeve line, and down center front. Long pointed sleeves of net were also edged with val lace with one medallion at the points and were tied beneath the wrists with white satin ribbon. Her nylon net fingertip veil was edged with chantilly lace and fell from a half hat of shirred net and lace. She carried a white Bible with pink and white carnations tied with loops of pink and white satin ribbon.

Charlotte Cole, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a deep blue suit with pink blouse and a corsage of tiny pink flowers with a carnage of pink baby carnations. Edwin Cole, brother of the groom, served as best man.

After receiving the best wishes and congratulations from relatives and friends, the happy couple left for a two days honeymoon to destination unisclosed.

The bride's mother wore light blue with the bridegroom's mother wore navy blue. Both wore corsages of pink baby carnations.

Following the honeymoon, Mr Cole will return to his work at Locke Mills. The couple will stay with Mr Cole's parents in Greenwood until about November first, after which time they will be at home in Woodstock.

There will be a reception for the young couple at Bryant Pond Grange Hall Friday evening (tonight).

SCHOOL NEWS

Grade 5 — Mrs Kneeland

Last week we had a lot of tests. The class is going to bring some pictures of animals that hibernate. We want to pin the pictures on the bulletin board. We have had the tape recorder in our room. We listened to our voices on the tape recorder. We are having trouble in arithmetic. We are trying to get higher rank. Jonathan Howell, Reporter.

Grade 6 — Mrs Doris Lord

This week we passed on our Maine notebooks and are now studying Nova Scotia. We are also going to make flags for the United Nations Day. We are putting some of our best arithmetic and English papers on the bulletin board. We hope we did well in our I Q and Achievement Tests.

Grade 6 — Miss Varner

Last week we observed Fire Prevention Week by drawing posters to show how carelessness can cause fires. We had Intelligence and Achievement Tests last week. We think our daily attendance has been very good. School has been open 32 days and we have had perfect attendance for 26 days. Miss Varner is reading us the story, "We Were There On The Oregon Trail." Reporter, Jackie Saunders.

Grade 8

Our class has now acquired $32.21 towards graduation and other expenses. To raise money we plan to have a race between the girls and the boys. The girls and boys will each have a project for the next month. The boys are having a social and the girls a food sale. The object is to see who can bring in the most money. Mrs Lowery's children passed in their Maine notebooks to Mr Heino as he is their Social Studies teacher. They are now taking up geography. Mr Heino's class is preparing a notebook containing Maine and some American History. We have planned to go roller skating a week from Friday night in Shelburne. Forty children are able to go as we like one of "Mush's" buses. Reporters, Mary Willard and Linda Brown.

In the new atmosphere of responsible government in Washington, any official who even comes under a cloud of suspicion, regardless of his legal innocence, automatically writes his own resignation from the Eisenhower Administration.
